PREFACE

WHO'S WHO IN AMERICA is a biennial publication. The first edition was published in 1899. Since that time a new edition, carefully revised, has appeared every two years.

Starting with 827 pages, the book has grown to 3,302 pages, an increase of 2,475 pages, or more than three times the original number. The first edition contained 8,602 biographies. The present edition (Vol. XI) contains 23,443 biographies, or nearly three times the number which appeared in the original edition, and 475 more sketches than appeared in Vol. X, the last previous edition.

Notwithstanding the considerably increased number of sketches in this edition, over any of its predecessors, many sketches will not be found which appeared in earlier issues, and there have been omitted from this volume 2,040 sketches which appeared in the last previous edition. These omissions have been rendered necessary for various reasons. Retirement from public office, when official position constituted the only ground for inclusion, will account for numerous eliminations. The death roll alone for the last biennium has made necessary the omission of 1,033 sketches, which appeared in the immediately preceding edition, while the death record, so far as known, of those whose sketches have appeared in all the volumes, comprises 8,560 names.

A few sketches were omitted because repeated requests to revise and verify personal data failed to elicit any response, and present addresses could not be ascertained. It may be safely assumed that some of those of whom no trace could be found have passed away. Others have removed to unknown locations, leaving no forwarding address. It is probable, therefore, that names which have been omitted, for the time, because of lack of up-to-date information concerning them, may be reinstated in future editions. Seekers for information in regard to omitted names are referred to previous editions for the latest available data.

NOTE.—In the preface of a book of reference so long established and so well known as WHO'S WHO IN AMERICA, little can be said that is not practically a repetition of the introductory remarks contained in earlier editions. This preface is adapted, substantially, from earlier editions.

The omissions from Vol. X (1918-1919) have been more than compensated for by the addition of 2,515 biographies which have appeared in no previous edition, bringing the total number of biographies in the present volume up to 23,443, as previously stated. These biographies represent, as nearly as possible, the most notable Americans of the time—the leaders of American thought and achievement in all parts of the world.

In Vol. VII the cross-references to previous editions reached the large number of 8,091—a number almost as great as the total number of sketches in the first edition of the book. The names accumulated in this way had become burdensome, and it was evident that the burden would become still greater with each succeeding biennium if the accumulating process were continued. For this reason cross references to the earlier editions were dropped with publication of Vol. VIII (1914-15). Therefore, Vol. VII (1912-13) will be of special value to anyone who desires to find the biographies which appeared in the earlier editions but were discontinued with publication of Vol. VIII (1914-15).

Cross references in the present volume refer to life-sketches in all volumes back to Vol. VII (1912-1913) inclusive, comprising all sketches which have been dropped since publication of that edition.

If to the 23,443 life-sketches in this issue be added the 15,987 which appeared in the previous editions, but which were omitted from time to time, a grand total of 39,430 biographical sketches will be available for ready reference to possessors of a complete file of the volumes of WHO'S WHO IN AMERICA. No other book has covered the biographical field of America in any such complete or authentic way.

It has been the rule arbitrarily to include sketches of all officers of the Army above the rank of colonel and all officers of the Navy above the rank of captain. An exception was made in the 1918-1919 edition, on account of the World War, and colonels of the Army and captains of the Navy were also included. In the present edition there is a return to the original rule, and sketches appear arbitrarily of officers of the Army above the rank of colonel and officers of the Navy above the rank of captain. In some cases it was impossible to secure the necessary information in time for inclusion in this issue, consequently a few names will be missed.

Each succeeding volume presents sketches of living notabilities with such completeness and authenticity as to be indispensable for daily reference, while the old editions become more and more valuable as records of those who have died, or who, for some other reason, have not been retained in this book.

It is doubtless true that the fitness of every name included will not be apparent to every user of the book. The artist will expect the volume to be especially complete in its selection of the artistic; the possessor of literary tastes will be disappointed if some author's name be missing; the scientist will miss names belonging to his own particular department of research. It is a fact, however, that while the standard of admission has from the first been high, there has been an unremitting effort to satisfy the reasonable expectations of those of all professions and vocations as to the names included. If there have been errors, they have been, in the main, on the side of liberality, in order that the book might be useful in the highest degree.

The invitation extended in former editions for the suggestion of new names has met with ready and cordial response. In this way many worthy names have been brought to the attention of the editor, and when such names were found to be eligible they were given a place in the book, provided the necessary data could be procured; but it should be understood that if a suggested name does not subsequently appear the omission is not necessarily an indication that the name has been rejected, for there are still occasional instances of failure to respond to requests for the required facts, without which a sketch cannot be included—and sketches for WHO'S WHO IN AMERICA are prepared from first-hand material only.

A summary of the birthplace and the present address, by states and countries, of all the persons biographically sketched, will be found in its accustomed place.

The rules governing the admission of names will be found on another page, under the caption "Qualifications for Admission."

In view of the fact that the educational statistics prepared at great pains for Vols. I, II, III, VI and X, produced, in each instance, almost identical results, it has been thought unnecessary to go over the ground again; and it may be assumed with almost positive certainty that a similar investigation of the educational status of the people whose life-sketches are contained in this issue would disclose results so strikingly similar to all previous findings as to illustrate convincingly the relation between college education and the degree of eminence or success which makes its possessor eligible for admission to these pages. Accepting the tabulated figures of previous editions as correct, it may be stated that over 72 per cent of the persons whose sketches appear in the present issue attended college and over 59 per cent are college graduates.

A "key" to the pronunciation of many of the most difficult names will be found on pages 19 to 24.

Let it again be stated that WHO'S WHO IN AMERICA aims to give brief, crisp, personal sketches of the most notable living Americans in all parts of the world—the men and women whose position or achievements make them of general interest. It tells just the things every intelligent person wants to know about those who are most conspicuous in every reputable walk of life—birthplace, age, parentage, education, degrees, occupation, position and achievements, politics, societies, clubs, marriage; and, in fact, the chief features of each career without eulogy or criticism.

Suggestions for improvement, changes in biographical data, notices of deaths, and announcements of changes of address as they occur, are invited.

The demonstrated usefulness of WHO'S WHO IN AMERICA has extended to practically all classes of men and institutions, and the information which this book alone possesses makes it a practical necessity for almost every intelligent person. In educational institutions it has its recognized place, as a matter of course, and the rapidly increasing use of the book in the schoolroom is creating an interest not known before, in important present-day events and personages, and arousing a spirit of inquiry and emulation which cannot fail to prove of great practical benefit to the pupil in after life. The best educational authorities recognize the value of high ideals, as exemplified in the lives of successful men and women, in shaping the aspirations of the growing mind. WHO'S WHO IN AMERICA is the only source to which teacher and student may turn, with assurance, for exact information pertaining to the careers of practically all of the most conspicuous living Americans. In the pages of this volume are mirrored the national life in all its various phases; the developments of science and industry; the marshaling of financial forces on a scale never before attempted; the building up of intelligence by the increasing magnificence and widening scope of educational facilities; the growing power of the Nation in military, naval and commercial strength; the development of literature and art; the ministry of the Gospel at home and abroad through American agencies; the progress and evolution of new social and political theories and potentialities. All these and other phases of American activity and progress are pictured through the life-sketches of the men and women who best represent them.

An attentive reading of the life-sketches in this volume discloses many extraordinary examples of industry which are overlooked in a cursory reading, but which, nevertheless, are full of valuable suggestion for the thoughtful mind. Many deeds of noble and beneficent achievement are recorded in these life-histories; and here are also chronicled thousands of activities which might be emulated with profit, not only by the youth of the country, but by all classes of American citizenship.

NOTE.—It is with a keen sense of regret that announcement is made of suspension, with publication of this edition, of the "educational section" which appeared in each of the previous editions. This course was made necessary for the sake of economizing space and with a view of keeping the volume down to the smallest possible proportions.

It is realized that great disappointment will be experienced by schools and colleges which have for years depended upon WHO'S WHO IN AMERICA as a valuable means for the dissemination of information concerning their scholastic advantages and equipment. While the discontinuance of this feature involves a considerable sacrifice of revenue, it is believed that this contributary means of keeping the book within the limits of a handy volume will be appreciated by its users.

Grateful acknowledgment is hereby made to schools which have from time to time favored the department with their advertising announcements.

April 30, 1920.

QUALIFICATIONS FOR ADMISSION

The standards of admission to WHO'S WHO IN AMERICA divide the eligibles into two classes: (1) those who are selected on account of special prominence in creditable lines of effort, making them the subjects of extensive interest, inquiry or discussion in this country; and (2) those who are arbitrarily included on account of official position—civil, military, naval, religious, or educational.

The first of these two classes comprises persons who have accomplished some conspicuous achievement—something out of the ordinary, so to speak—something which distinguishes them from the vast majority of their contemporaries. This class is confined to Americans, or those who are so prominently identified with American affairs as to be the subjects of wide inquiry or discussion in the United States. Thus a few foreign actors, singers, lecturers and others are included, who, by frequent visits to America, or in some other way, have become the subjects of common American interest. Names appear of those who are broadly prominent in some special field but who are little known in their own communities. The man of great achievement may be scarcely known at all in the particular locality in which he lives. The national character is frequently he whose work is better known than himself, and it is pertinent personal information concerning such an individual that WHO'S WHO IN AMERICA aims to gather and disseminate.

The arbitrary class embraces without regard to notability or prominence in any other respect, the following: All members of Congress; members of the Cabinet; all United States judges; all governors of States, Territories and island possessions of the United States; Federal department heads; all judges of State and Territorial Courts of highest appellate jurisdiction; all American ambassadors and ministers plenipotentiary, and all ambassadors and ministers accredited to this country; all American consuls at important places in foreign countries; all living American authors of books possessing more than ephemeral value; the attorneys general of the various States; all officers of the Army above the rank of colonel, and of the Navy above the rank of captain; heads of all the larger universities and colleges; heads of the leading societies devoted to philanthropic, educational and scientific aims; members of the National Academy of Sciences, the National Academy of Design, the American Academy of Arts and Letters, the National Institute of Arts and Letters; bishops and chief ecclesiastics of all the larger religious denominations of the United States; and others who are in like manner chosen because of their official relations and affiliations.

To be sure, the majority of the names in the arbitrary classification would be admitted without hesitation even if they did not belong to the classification indicated, because of a personal record not at all dependent upon official position.

Not a single sketch in WHO'S WHO IN AMERICA has been paid for—and none can be paid for.

Total	23,443	23,443

In the foregoing table are listed the 55 States and Territories, including Alaska, Hawaii Territory, Porto Rico, the District of Columbia, the Philippine Islands, the Canal Zone, and 81 foreign countries or their dependencies as locations of the birth or residence of persons whose names appear in the present volume

Of the total number of 23,443 names listed, 20,842, or 88.89 per cent, are natives of the United States; 2,334, or 9.96 per cent, are of foreign birth; 7 were born at sea, and 260 do not report as to place of birth. For the sake of comparison it may be stated that of persons whose names appear in the last previous edition (1918-1919), 88.54 per cent were native and 10.27 per cent were foreign born.

New York State contributes 3,356 natives, and, as heretofore, stands at the head of the list numerically, followed by Massachusetts with 1,961, Pennsylvania with 1,878, Ohio with 1,731; next follows Illinois with 1,207, Indiana with 744, and Michigan and Virginia with 622 each. Other states contributing more than 300 natives are Connecticut, Iowa, Wisconsin, Missouri, New Jersey, Maine, Maryland, Kentucky, New Hampshire, North Carolina, Vermont, Tennessee, in the order named. Of the above-named states, Illinois made the largest gain (104) over the number listed in the 1918-1919 edition.

New York State leads in the number of residents, being credited with 5,067. Massachusetts is credited with 1,966, Pennsylvania with 1,608, District of Columbia, 1,558; Illinois, 1,532; other states credited with more than 300 residents are, in the order named, California, Ohio, New Jersey, Connecticut, Missouri, Maryland, Michigan, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Indiana and Virginia.

In regard to home addresses, 23,045 have their permanent homes in the United States, its territories or possessions, and the homes of 335 are in foreign countries. The addresses of 63 are not given. That the war caused many Americans living abroad to return to their native land was shown by the residence statistics in the edition of 1916-1917 as compared with the previous edition. The tendency to return to America is still further shown by residence statistics in the present edition. Whereas there were 1,472 living in foreign countries in 1918, the number dropped to 325 at the beginning of 1920. England was credited with 111 in the 1916-1917 edition, 79 in the 1918-1919, and has only 61 for 1920-1921 who still continue their home in that country. France has 64 as compared with 85 four years ago, Germany only 3, instead of 35 as in the 1916-1917 edition, and Turkey 5 instead of 13, the missing ones being mostly missionaries, who were driven out of the country by the war. Canada is accredited with 32, China with 28, Italy with 18, Japan 16, and Mexico 7.

It is interesting to note that American residents of foreign countries are comparatively few, excepting those who are living abroad temporarily as representatives of the U. S. Government or in a purely business capacity. It is obvious that Americans of more than local distinction, are, with few exceptions, content with the United States as their permanent abiding place.

Of the foreign-born Canada is credited with 492, England with 423, Germany 352, Ireland 153, Scotland 128, Russia 88, Sweden 76, France 72.

Birth statistics show that during very recent years the Middle West and West have contributed an increasing percentage of men and women of prominence as compared with the Atlantic states. Whereas in the 1918-1919 edition there were 3,383 listed as having been born in New York State, the present edition shows 3,356, a decrease of 27. There were 1,993 natives of Massachusetts listed in the 1918-1919 edition, while in the present edition the number is 1,961, a decrease of 32. Most of the other Eastern States show like decreases. The Middle West and Western states all show increases, led by Illinois with an increase in native born of 104, Ohio 46 and California 24.

The table will be found valuable as showing the extent of the dispersion or concentration of the activities and achievements of those deemed worthy of a place in this volume. Many other interesting deductions may be made by a careful study of the table.
